DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-2, 4-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by JP 11-160857 or JP 60-255861. The references are cited in the IDS of 4/28/2006.

JP '857 discloses a coating comprising an isocyanurate polyisocyanate compound, a synthetic resin having a functional group that reacts with and bonds to an isocyanate group, and an organic solvent, and it states that the film thickness ranges from 1-15 microns. The reference does not specifically mention glossing, but since the reference teaches the same coating solution and thickness, it would inherently have the same properties such as surface gloss.

JP '861 also discloses the same coating composition as in JP '857, and it states that the film thickness of the coating is from 5-100 microns. In the Examples, it also states that the coating has excellent luster.

3. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Richter et al. (US Pat. 6,515,097).

Richter discloses a coating composition, comprising a block polyisocyanate containing isocyanurate for making polyurethane coatings (see col. 2, ln. 11-37). The coating layer has a thickness of 0.1 microns and 1.0 microns.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP '857 or JP '861 as applied to claims 1-2, 4-7 above and further in view of JP 2001-525883.

JP '857 and JP '861 are as set forth in claims 1-2, 4-7 above and incorporated herein.

The above references do not teach the isocyanate compound to be blocked.

JP '073 discloses a block isocyanate compound as the isocyanate used in a coating material. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have employed the block isocyanate compound, as taught by JP '883, in the coating composition of JP '857 or JP '861. This is because using a block agent would prevent it from random reaction and thus improve the stability of the composition.
